AUSTIN BOURNE

Biography

“Austin balances comedic timing with emotional depth.”

AUSTIN BOURNE, actor from Kentucky whose mix of sharp comedic timing and heartfelt authenticity has already made him a festival favorite.

He shines as David in Just One Life (Worldwide Women’s Film Festival, Hollywood Independent Filmmaker Awards) and leads Ghosts of the Big Sandy, a role praised for its nuance and emotional depth (Northeast Film Festival, Louisville International Festival of Film). In the holiday feature Festival of Trees, Austin brings warmth and wit to the role of Scott.

On the animated side, Austin voices Wes the Wolf in Yeti, Set, Go!—part of the Confident Life™ Anti-Bullying Program—which earned a Diamond Award at the 2024 International Independent Film Awards.

Beyond acting, Austin trains at Cynthia Bain’s Young Actors Studio and Second City Improv, honing his craft with top coaches. A black belt (red stripe) in karate and avid athlete, he also brings a rugged authenticity from life on his family’s cattle farm. With a natural Southern dialect and a light British accent in his toolkit, Austin delivers versatility well beyond his years.

Whether as the goofy best friend, the heartfelt underdog, or the animated sidekick, Austin Bourne is a young actor who leaves a lasting impression.
